

ABSTRACT

This invention relates illustratively to a portable video recorder that uses an optical disk. The inventive recorder is arranged to switch the degree of power conservation depending on the length of an idle time T_2 during intermittent recording and/or reproduction of continuous data to and/or from the optical disk.